Freedom of expression

ARTICLE 10

Freedom of expression

1. Everyone has the right to freedom of expression. This right shall include freedom to hold opinions and to receive and impart information and ideas without interference by public authority and regardless of frontiers. This Article shall not prevent States from requiring the licensing of broadcasting, television or cinema enterprises.

2. The exercise of these freedoms, since it carries with it duties and responsibilities, may be subject to such formalities, conditions, restrictions or penalties as are prescribed by law and are necessary in a democratic society, in the interests of national security, territorial integrity or public safety, for the prevention of disorder or crime, for the protection of health or morals, for the protection of the reputation or rights of others, for preventing the disclosure of information received in confidence, or for maintaining the authority and impartiality of the judiciary.

European Convention on Human Rights
Defining hate speech

"...the term ‘hate speech’ shall be understood as covering all forms of expression which spread, incite, promote or justify racial hatred, xenophobia, anti-Semitism or other forms of hatred based on intolerance, including: intolerance expressed by aggressive nationalism and ethnocentrism, discrimination and hostility against minorities, migrants and people of immigrant origin."

Council of Europe Committee of Ministers Recommendation (97[20] 30th October 1997)

Defining hate speech

"...the advocacy, promotion or incitement of the denigration, hatred or vilification of a person or group of persons, as well any harassment, insult, negative stereotyping, stigmatization or threat of such person or persons and any justification of all these forms of expression – that is based on a non-exhaustive list of personal characteristics or status that includes ‘race’, colour, language, religion or belief, nationality or national or ethnic origin, as well as descent, age, disability, sex, gender, gender identity and sexual orientation.."

Article 1
Offences concerning racism and xenophobia
1. Each Member State shall take the measures necessary to ensure that the following intentional conduct is punishable:

(a) publicly inciting to violence or hatred directed against a group of persons or a member of such a group defined by reference to race, colour, religion, descent or national or ethnic origin;

(b) the commission of an act referred to in point (a) by public dissemination or distribution of tracts, pictures or other material;

(c) publicly condoning, denying or grossly trivialising crimes of genocide, crimes against humanity and war crimes as defined in Articles 6, 7 and 8 of the Statute of the International Criminal Court, directed against a group of persons or a member of such a group defined by reference to race, colour, religion, descent or national or ethnic origin when the conduct is carried out in a manner likely to incite to violence or hatred against such a group or a member of such a group;

(d) publicly condoning, denying or grossly trivialising the crimes defined in Article 6 of the Charter of the International Military Tribunal appended to the London Agreement of 8 August 1945, directed against a group of persons or a member of such a group defined by reference to race, colour, religion, descent or national or ethnic origin when the conduct is carried out in a manner likely to incite to violence or hatred against such a group or a member of such a group.

Decision 2008/913/JHA

Article 4
Racist and xenophobic motivation
For offences other than those referred to in Articles 1 and 2, Member States shall take the necessary measures to ensure that racist and xenophobic motivation is considered an aggravating circumstance, or, alternatively that such motivation may be taken into consideration by the courts in the determination of the penalties.

Federation of Poles in Great Britain — letter to the Press Complaints Commission

"The Federation of Poles in Great Britain is concerned about newspaper coverage emphasising negative aspects of the Polish presence in the UK. The worst examples have linked Poles with the expressions ‘feckless’, 'chancers', 'swamping the NHS', 'fears for schools', 'British pushed to the back of the jobs queue', 'killers', 'drug smugglers', 'rapists', etc. This has made Poles living in the UK feel persecuted."

"Poles have felt humiliated by this coverage and vulnerable to numerous acts of hostility, even violence, by a vociferous minority of UK citizens. Hundreds of hate crimes against Poles, some leading to injury or death, have been recorded in this country in the last two years."

Public Order Act 1986: Section 4A Intentional harassment, alarm or distress.
1 A person is guilty of an offence if, with intent to cause a person harassment, alarm or distress, he—
(a) uses threatening, abusive or insulting words or behaviour, or disorderly behaviour, or
(b) displays any writing, sign or other visible representation which is threatening, abusive or insulting, thereby causing that or another person harassment, alarm or distress.
Hate crimes hurt more

Crime surveys in the UK and US show that on average hate crime victims report greater levels of post-victimization distress compared with victims of comparable, but otherwise motivated crimes.

Transmission and ritual models of communication

Transmission model
- Direct impact of communication – mental, emotional and behavioural changes caused and the harms consequently inflicted
- Reinforcement of attitudes which create a social reality that results in disparate and discriminatory treatment

Ritual model
