"Paradigm Shift"

- Persons with Disabilities have traditionally been addressed through:
 - Charity
 - Paternalism and
 - Social Policy
- The underlying presumption within the UN CRPD is on ensuring respect for human rights, regardless of the difference of disability.

UN CRPD – A Response

- American's with Disabilities Act, 1990
- Member State actions
- Framework Employment Directive 2000/78/EC
- EU Disability Action Plan2003-2010 (COM/2003/650)
- EU Disability Strategy (COM/2010/636)
- Proposed New Equal Treatment Directive (COM/2008/426)

UN CRPD

- Adopted by UN General Assembly 13 December 2007
- Opened for signature 30 March 2007
- Entry into force 03 may 2008
 - Convention 153 signed 106 parties
 - Optional protocol 90 signed 63 parties
- Ratified by the European Union 23 December 2010

Why the necessity for a Convention?

- Estimated 10% of world's population have a disability.
- Existing human rights conventions were not responding to the needs of people with disabilities.
- CRPD does not create new rights, instead focusing existing human rights to the needs of people with disabilities.

- The shift is from the medical model of disability to the social model of disability.
- Focus on societal barriers as opposed to the individual and their perceived limitations.
- There is a distinction between "impairment" and "disability"

Article 1 – UNCRPD - Disability

Persons with disabilities include those who have long-term physical, mental, intellectual or sensory impairments which in interaction with various barriers may hinder their full and effective participation in society on an equal basis with others.
